Ohio Speech and Hearing Governmental Affairs Coalition
Legislative Activities Report
February 2018

With Ohio's legislators back in session, action around the Statehouse has heated up as state lawmakers work to move legislation prior to breaking for the summer to focus on the elections. Lawmakers face a number of challenging pieces of legislation, including a capital budget and a proposal to revise how congressional districts are drawn in Ohio.

Facing a February 7th deadline to qualify for the May ballot, legislators have been scrambling to find common ground on a GOP-crafted resolution (SJR 5) calling for reforms to how Ohio draws its congressional districts. The plan's drafters would like to see the resolution move through both chambers by the deadline in order to avoid a contentiously politicized issue landing on the general election ballot. In 2015, a bipartisan agreement led to a General Assembly-backed ballot issue on legislative redistricting that was ultimately approved by more than 70% of voters.

President Larry Obhof said this year's capital budget will be "a little bit tighter" than that of the last General Assembly. The capital budget, which is designed to fund capital improvements with state-issued debt, will likely be introduced in the next month. Lawmakers plan to have most of the details hashed out prior to the bill's introduction in order to streamline its passage. In 2016, the General Assembly's capital budget was $2.6 billion. President Obhof indicated that this session's spending bill will likely be around 10% less than the previous bill.

Outside of the legislature, the inaugural meeting of the new Speech and Hearing Professionals Board took place on January 22, 2018. Gregg Thornton was officially hired as the Executive Director of the new board. While there is one public member yet to be named, the following board members were appointed:

Also on the administrative front, ODE recently convened the related services provider workgroup. The first meeting was held on January 25, 2018. The workgroup includes many representatives that GAC has worked with in the past on this important issue, including representatives from the OT and PT associations as well as the ESC association and the school psychologists association. The SLP representatives are Barb Conrad and Kathy McDermott and the audiology representative is Carrie Spangler. All three of these very capable practitioners participated in the GAC led workgroup that met in 2016. The workgroup is chaired by Director of the Office of Exceptional Children, Kim Mondachino. The group plans to meet through its statutory deadline of June 2019.

GAC representatives recently met with Ohio Medicaid on the draft speech-generating device rule. We renewed our concerns about the authorization of iPads as speech-generating devices and shared data from PRC about many denials by managed care plans that specifically reference an iPad as an appropriate alternative. In addition, we raised two other “wordsmithing” concerns that Medicaid agreed to correct. We continue to work with the Department to make the draft rule better for consumers and providers. It is important to note that the rule will not be effective on April 1st, as originally planned, but more likely closer to June or July 2018.

In political news, Governor Kasich recently announced Seventh District Court of Appeals Judge Mary DeGenaro as his pick to replace Supreme Court Justice Bill O'Neill. DeGenaro is also a declared candidate for the upcoming six-year term for the seat and has been endorsed by the Republican Party. The move creates a high court with no Democrats on the bench and gives Judge DeGenaro an advantage in the general election.

The House Republican Caucus recently announced its replacements for the vacancies in the 81st and 87th Districts. Former State Representative Jim Hoops was selected to replace now Senator Rob McColley in the 81st District and Riordan McClain, son of former Rep. Jeff McClain, was chosen to replace Wes Goodman in the 87th District. Mr. Hoops, of Napoleon, is currently associate vice president for Strategic Initiatives at Northwest State Community College. He also previously served as Henry County auditor. Mr. McClain, of Upper Sandusky, is director of Finance and Customer Service at Doc Investments LLC. He holds degrees from Bluffton University and the University of Findlay.

In other news, the Bureau of Workers' Compensation (BWC) recently proposed that private employer premium rates be cut by 12% starting July 1st. The proposal would save businesses $163.5 million compared to current rates. BWC rates are already at their lowest point in more than four decades.

Also of note, the Ohio Department of Job and Family Services recently reported that Ohio gained 2,500 jobs in December and the state's unemployment rate dropped to 4.7%. The rate is down from 5% from the previous year, yet still lags behind the U.S. unemployment rate of 4.1%.
