Ohio Speech and Hearing GAC Legislative Activities Report April 2022

State Board of Education Vice President Martha Manchester, who also serves as the chair of the board's Teaching, Leading, and Learning (TLL) Committee, said she is scheduling a special meeting for further discussion -- and a potential vote -- on the Ohio Dyslexia Guidebook. Manchester said she is also considering adding discussion time for the "Student Interactions with Peace Officers" model curriculum. The meeting has been scheduled for Thursday, April 28 at 9:00am in Columbus.

In late March, the Senate Workforce and Higher Education Committee Tuesday began hearing presentations on the operations of state boards as part of the General Assembly's ongoing occupational licensure review. Under GA132-SB255 (McColley), legislative committees are assigned to periodically review licensure requirements. The House began its review last October in the House State and Local Committee, with recommended revisions wrapped into HB509 (John-Fowler Arthur). Members of the Senate committee heard initial testimony from Elizabeth Moore, executive director of the State Chiropractic Board; Gregg Thornton, executive director of the Ohio Speech and Hearing Professionals (SHP) Board; and Brian Carnahan, executive director of the Counselor, Social Worker, and Marriage and Family Therapist (CSWMFT) Board.

Schools and local governments will only be able to challenge property valuations for tax purposes if the difference between the sale price and county auditor's valuation exceeds 10 percent and $500,000, under legislation signed by Gov. Mike DeWine. The House and Senate both adopted the version of HB126 (Merrin) hammered out in a conference committee. The Senate approved it on a 24-8 vote. The conference report was approved on the House floor by a vote of 59-35. Rep. Derek Merrin (R-Monclova), the bill sponsor and conference committee chair, has sought for multiple sessions to enact restrictions on the ability of political subdivisions to challenge valuations and to enter private-pay agreements where property owners agree to make payments in order to settle the disputes. Merrin said in the conference committee hearing that the final version would provide protection against "arbitrary and unwarranted complaints" and reduce property owners' uncertainty about their tax expenses. He called private-pay agreements, which are banned in the bill, "special, unseemly cash payments that distort values and treat taxpayers differently."

Saying "state officials, not federal courts, draw state electoral districts" and that the U.S. Supreme Court has given a clear answer that federal courts must impose new maps only as a last resort, a three-judge federal panel pushed its date of last resort back to Saturday, May 28. If the state does not come up with a new plan by then, the judges said, they will order the use of the third plan adopted by the Ohio Redistricting Commission for the upcoming election. In a per curiam opinion, U.S. District Chief Judge Algenon Marbley, U.S. Circuit Judge Amul Thapar and U.S. District Judge Benjamin Beaton agreed the case has standing and that they must act in a federal lawsuit brought by Republican activists if the state does not resolve its redistricting issue. Marbley, however, dissented on the remedy that the court should order which appears to negate the need for any further action by the commission and clears the way for a second primary on Aug. 2.

U.S. Rep. Bob Gibbs (R-Ashland) made the sudden announcement that he will not seek re-election this year, forgoing a primary where he faced a candidate backed strongly by former President Donald Trump. Gibbs released a statement through his campaign criticizing the redistricting process that drew him with Max Miller, a former Trump staffer who has the backing of the former president and who had originally announced a campaign to unseat U.S. Rep. Anthony Gonzalez (R-Canton), who is also not running for re-election. "It is irresponsible to effectively confirm the congressional map for this election cycle seven days before voting begins, especially in the Seventh Congressional District where almost 90 percent of the electorate is new and nearly two-thirds is an area primarily from another district, foreign to any expectations or connection to the current Seventh District," Gibbs said in a statement.

During a recent floor session, Rep. Janine Boyd (D-Cleveland Heights) announced that she is leaving the House to take a position with the Biden administration. "This all happened really fast," Boyd said, later telling Hannah News that details about her new position will be released shortly.
